THREE SEPARATE INVESTIGATIONS

City Authorities and Coroner in Eastland Tragedy Will Turn Evidence Over to Federal Authorities

(Special to The Herald)
Chicago, July 26.—Several bodies tossed by the strong current and swept away from the Eastland wreck, were discovered today caught in the net stretched across the Chicago river at 12th street bridge, nearly two miles from the overturned lake steamer. The bodies were removed to the Second Regiment Armory for identification.

Spurred on by an order from President Wilson that the overloading of the steamer Eastland with the loss of hundreds of lives, be made the subject of a thorough investigation, three separate inquiries into the disaster were started today.

Coroner Peter Hoffman was at his office at 8.30 a. m. He held a conference with Acting Mayor Moorehouse, Chief of Police Healy, and First Deputy Schenck. It was decided that all the evidence gathered by the city authorities and the coroner's deputy and the detectives was to be turned over to the Federal grand jury. The Federal inquirers were ordered to report to Judge Landis on Thursday morning. The investigation of the disaster has revealed a startling story of the conduct of the officers on board the ill-fated steamer.

Health Commissioner Robertson and scores of Chicago physicians today started a campaign to prevent an epidemic of typhoid as the result of the Eastland disaster. Warning was issued that every survivor who had been thrown into the Chicago river should as a precaution take the anti-typhoid vaccine at the 54 stations established in the city by the health officers.

"The Eastland was overloaded and the overloading was responsible for the tragedy of Saturday." This was the finding of State's Attorney MacKay Hoyne today, made after examining more than a hundred witnesses.

Announcement of the finding was made by Assistant State's Attorney Rader, who was preparing the testimony for presentation to the grand jury. Criminal prosecution will follow as the investigation progresses.

Headed by officials of the city, state and Federal government, divers, firemen and policemen continued their sorry task of removing bodies from the sunken hull of the death ship. It is now believed that between 1000 and 1200 persons lost their lives. Coroner Hoffman declared, however, that with more than 800 dead already accounted for, there were, he thought, 700 bodies still trapped in the hull and caught in the life nets stretched across the Chicago river at frequent intervals for a distance of two miles.

Acting Mayor Moorehouse gave out the following statement: "In 1914 the captain of the Eastland filed papers with the Chicago chief of police swearing that the capacity of the vessel was 2000 persons. The company admitted that 2500 were on board the vessel when she capsized Saturday morning. That seems to be overcrowding on the face of it."

The grand jury investigation under direction of State's Attorney Hoyne was not started today as expected. Many witnesses were on hand to testify, but they were sent home with instructions to wait a later call.

Hoyne said he desired to have more time in which to prepare evidence. Assistant State Attorney Rader, discussing the result of the investigation, said: "All of our testimony points to the fact that the boat was overloaded. There were other considerations but the main fact is that overcrowding caused the tragedy. They had too many persons too high on the ship. The question of ballast has been brought up but we have been investigating since Saturday morning, have questioned hundreds of witnesses and everything points to overcrowding. There were also many other irregularities."

DOG STOLEN.
Benjamin E. Pray of Greenland Mourns Loss of Young Collie.

A beautiful young collie dog named "Jack," owned by Benjamin E. Pray, was stolen from his farm on the Newington road, Greenland, on Saturday noon. Mr. Pray did not miss the dog until late afternoon, and upon failure to find the dog around the farm, went to a neighbor's house and inquired.

It seems that shortly before noon a stranger of very rough looking appearance, and who was afoot, took the dog and carried him away with him. The neighbor, thinking the man a laborer on the farm of Mr. Pray did not interfere.

Mr. Pray at once began a search for the missing collie, and traced the man for about two miles into Newington, and there the trail was lost. The toll keeper at Dover Point bridge was notified and he said the stranger had not passed by there, so it was thought he came toward Portsmouth.

The dog was a very pretty animal about one year old, of a light brown color with dark hairs running down his back. A reward has been offered by Mr. Pray for the recovery of the pet.

Richard L. Dyer, who was connected with the Colonial and Premier Seaside Temple as electrician, has concluded his duties, and left for his home at Auburn, Me., today, Monday.

Brought Good Money
The U. S. S. Portsmouth which has long been a useless bulk in the possession of the government at the Norfolk navy yard, has finally after several efforts in that direction, been sold to the highest bidder, a New England man, for the sum of $1,680. The other bids were $2,100, $4,000 and $4,225.05. The selling price is $1027 higher than the highest bid received when bids were opened on June 7 and rejected because at that time the Portsmouth had sunk in a heavy gale which occurred on May 29. The navy department raised the vessel and invited new bids, which were very satisfactory considering the appraised value was $3,000.

The famous old sloop of war was built here in 1818.

AMERICAN STEAMER TORPEDOED

(Special to The Herald)
London, July 26.—Within 48 hours after the German foreign office had received President Wilson's latest note on submarine warfare, a German U boat torpedoed and sunk the American steamer Leelanaw off the coast of Scotland. The vessel was torpedoed on Sunday morning while bound from Arch Angel, Russia, to Belfast, Ireland, with a cargo of flax.

Before she went to the bottom, the crew took to the boats under the direction of Captain Delk. The crew was landed at Kilmall today.

The Leelanaw was built in Newcastle, Eng., in 1886, had a gross tonnage of 1,923; length 273 feet, breadth 36 feet, and depth 21 feet. She carried a complement of 31 men.

BRITISH GOVERNMENT MAKES REPLY
(Special to The Herald)
Washington, July 26.—Secretary of State Lansing today announced that he had received from Ambassador Page in London a lengthy note from the British government toward the rights of neutrals as affected by the British blockade of Germany. This note is in answer to the one sent the British government by the United States on March 30, denying the right of Great Britain as claimed in her order-in-council of March 11 to interfere with neutral shipments under the rule of "continuous voyage."

SPECIAL SESSION OF CONGRESS MAY BE CALLED

President May Yield to Advice of Democratic Leaders and Call Body Together at Early Date.

Cornish, July 25.—President Wilson rested today, but tomorrow will begin to devote most of his time to working on official business brought by him from Washington.

The President himself remained silent regarding the plans Secretary Garrison and Daniels are mapping out at his direction for a comprehensive scheme of national defense.

Up to the present there has been no indication here that the President plans to call an extra session of congress to consider national defense or any other subject, but it is known that some democratic leaders believe that congress could meet in the fall, and the President may decide to follow their advice.

Berlin, July 25.—(Oversea News Agency Dispatch, by Wireless Telegram to Sayville, N. Y.)—The latest American note to Germany concerning submarine warfare was received most unfavorably by the German newspapers. The Vossische Zeitung, in a lengthy editorial said:

"The refusal to accept Germany's practical proposal to protect American passengers shows an absolute lack of readiness to understand the German standpoint. The principle that belligerent states must protect neutrals is untenable if applied in the fullest sense as it would mean abdication to neutral states. It is true that belligerents must respect neutral rights, but only provided neutrals do everything to prevent their citizens getting into situations where protection is impossible."

"Victory over the enemy is a supreme law for every belligerent. Those who render more difficult this task than does international law, support the enemy. The war on land has shown clearly that restrictions are necessary. A person who remains within a beleaguered fortress or walks into a gun fire zone risks his life without right or protection of his home government."

"The same is also true of naval warfare in spite of the mistaken phrase, 'Freedom of the Seas.' It is granted that the ocean is free for peaceful travel, but naval battles also take place on it. Neutral ships sailing between fighting battlefleets run the risk of being hit by shells and also of being struck by mines. The submarine's only instruments are the firing of torpedoes.

"Those who demand that Germany should conduct the war according to rules laid down by some academic professor expect Germany either to endanger her submarines or to give up this warfare, which means the weakening of Germany in the interest of her enemy. This is not neutrality, but partisanship against Germany."

"We know today that the passengers of the Lusitania, could have been saved but they were neglected. Germany regrets their death, but she has a clean conscience and has no reason to disapprove of the conduct of her submarine commanders."

"President Wilson considers the further torpedoing of British warships carrying American passengers a deliberately unfriendly act."

"While Germany is always glad to protect friendship she has conceded everything that has been conceded. One bit more would be considered humiliating by the German nation, whose armies have been victorious upon all the battlefields in the east and in the west."

"The Tagliche Rundschau and the Kreuzzeitung similarly declare that the American note calls for the most decided opposition and that it requires Great Britain 'to show at least an equal respect for the spirit of international law as the President demands from Germany.' The Tagblatt says:

"The note shows clearly that the American government cares more for the crippling of our submarine war than for the safeguarding of American lives. The United States must realize that to change our submarine warfare is out of the question. The note proves that pro-British influence has gained an upper hand in President Wilson's circle. We hope that common sense of American people will prevent citizens from serving as protection for English munition ships."

BOSTON LETTER

Boston, July 26.—The state of Massachusetts is now in full possession of its first state forest. The final deeds for the tract of 1700 acres at Winchendon have been signed by the state forestry commission, composed of State Forester Frank W. Kane, Harvey N. Shepard and Harold Parker. The Winchendon tract is the first purchased under the provisions of an act of the legislature which authorized the commission to purchase land in the state suitable for reforestation at not more than an average price of $5 per acre, the price which was paid for the 1700 acres at Winchendon. The commission received $10,000 from the appropriation last year and $20,000 for the succeeding four years, and from this appropriation the first state forest has now been secured. The tract was purchased from 20 old owners, but even before the final deeds were signed work on the reforestation has commenced. In the spring the commission set out about 75,000 young white pines on different parts of the reservation, and these young trees are reported as being in fine condition. The localities will lose nothing in taxes, for the state pays to the localities in which the forests are located the amount of taxes which they would have received had the land remained in private hands.

Boston, July 26.—The Progressives will endorse William Shaw, the Prohibition candidate for governor, if plans now afoot go through. Shaw is being urged for the Progressive nomination by those who oppose amalgamation with the Republicans. Plans for the presentation of Shaw's name to the state committee were made at a secret conference at headquarters, participated in by Secretary Patrick J. Anglin of the Progressive city committee of Boston; Charles Eliot Ware, Jr., former treasurer of the Progressive state committee; Daniel T. Callahan of Winthrop; William N. Osgood of Lowell and others.

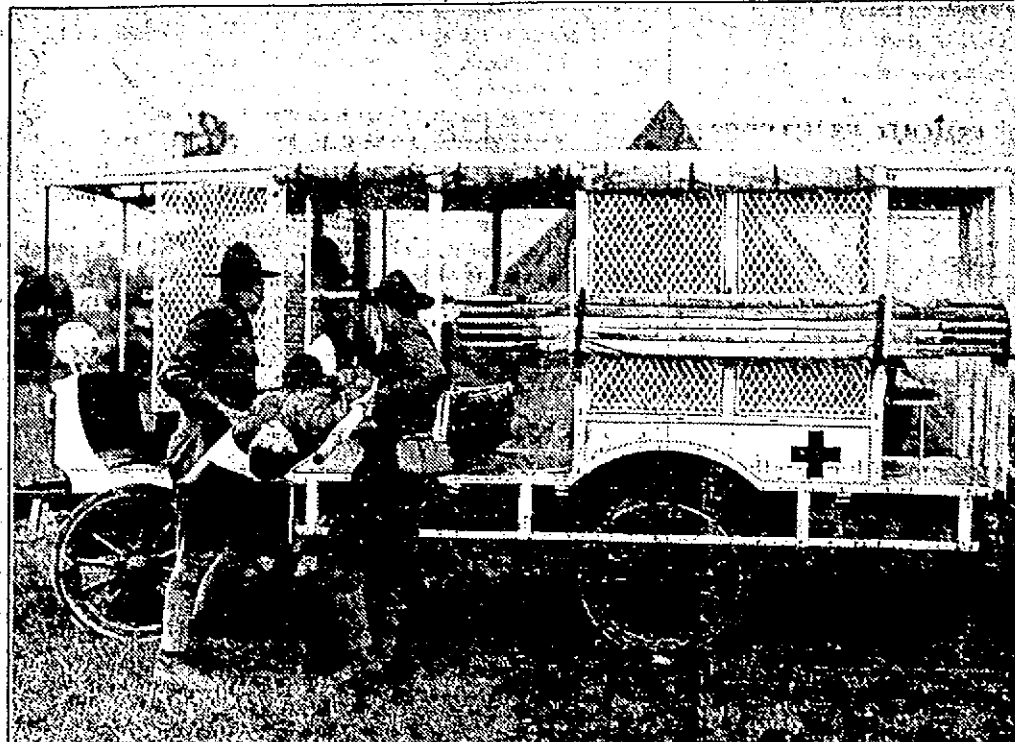

Boston, July 24.—Figures compiled by the Anti-Saloon League and made public today show that out of 178,018 arrests last year in Massachusetts, 103,185 or over 58 per cent were for drunkenness. League officials assert they are now compiling for the fall campaign statistics which they claim, will show that the cost of handling the cases of drunkenness, including the members cared for in insane hospitals and almshouses, will be more than double the revenue received by the state from the liquor traffic. Figures throughout the state, the league claims show that over 84 per cent of the arrests were made in seventeen cities which are license all the year and that 51 per cent of the arrests were made in 33 cities of the state. Lynn under no license showed 263 arrests and under five months of license increased to 1052 arrests. "These figures" declared Supt. A. J. Davis of the league "are very interesting in view of the claim which has been raised to protect the liquor interests. The only remedy for the increasing drunkenness is National Prohibition."

The Fogg Family Association is now making plans to celebrate its 14th annual reunion on August 27 at Elliot, Maine. For the past fourteen years the members of this association have met yearly in reunion. The organization dates back fifteen years. The family has its common ancestor in Samuel Fogg who settled in Hampton N. H. in 1640. The old homestead not far from Hampton Beach, has long been a favorite place for family gatherings. There are now 200 active members of the association in various parts of the country, but most of them are in New England. Willis Allen Fogg of Mahlen is president. The vice president is Mrs. George Fogg of Lowell, and Mrs. A. J. Fogg of Boston is secretary and treasurer.

That the people of Europe will not be able to get anywhere in social reform for the next two generations unless some sort of an international police is established or there is a revolution against the increased cost of living, lowering of wages and increased taxation, was the declaration of Rev. W. Harris Cook of Oxford, speaking before the Woman's Peace party here today. The speaker severely and strongly denounced the attempt to hold the workers of England up to exactation as drunkards and shirkers. He strongly insisted that the blame for any lack of munitions was higher up than the workers and said that while the employers in a considerable number of trades had made larger profits during the last year than in former years that they stubbornly refused to raise wages though the cost of living is now about 50 per cent higher than in July 1911.

More than $325,000 has been expended by the state and national governments in settling claims arising out of the destruction of animals and property infected with foot and mouth disease last winter and spring, the expense being divided equally between the state and national treasuries. The amount paid out of the state treasury to date is $412,807.60, distributed among the owners of 97 infected premises, located in 48 cities and towns. The largest payment was made to Algermon H. Barney of Rehoboth, who received two checks, each for $20,793.89, a total of $41,587.78 for the loss of 2871 swine, 55 cattle, 52 sheep and three goats.

Intense interest was taken in the battle exercises of the New York national guard and regulars at Pliskill Landing, N. Y. Every day hundreds of spectators went to the sham battle grounds and got an idea of the quality and efficiency of the men who will be asked to go to the front in the event of this country going to war with a foreign power. In the accompanying illustration is shown the ambulance corps at work after a particularly "hot" battle. One of the "wounded" soldiers is being placed in one of the most up to date army ambulances made.

GOOD VAUDEVILLE AT PORTSMOUTH THEATRE

The Portsmouth Theatre is offering another of its now sure feature vaudeville bills for the first three days of this week, three big headline acts. Bounding Johnson, who is performing a turn known as a bounding-rope act, has been playing all the big houses throughout New England, and his act is a distinct novelty. This number is well worth seeing, and is certain to please, not only because of its novelty, but also for its cleverness.

Hallen and Hughes are presenting another novelty number and are styled as the "English Chappies." They will put some real comedy over, and are considered as two of the cleverest people in vaudeville in their line.

"The Property Boy" is a comedy sketch offered by Charles Buckley and Company, an act with three artists. The patrons of this popular play house will be sure to see something in this act that will please. The comedy is clean and the little sketch is full of funny situations.

The picture program is headed with the fifth story of the "Road O'Strife" series, called "The Ring of Death." This serial is a Lubin drama and the cast is an all star one. This part of the program includes the Hearst-Selig News Pictorial, Hearst to get the news, and Selig to get the pictures. This week's issue is very interesting and instructive, one of the best issues for some time.

Editorial. 28 | Business. 37

Portsmouth, N. H., Monday, July 26, 1915.

Heroes of Peace.

The thousands who visit the seashore in hot weather and enjoy the bathing and other attractions think but little about the tanned and brawny life savers who are constantly on guard to rescue bathers who venture beyond their depth or are swept too far from shore by heavy undertows which occasionally overtake and overpower men and women who cannot be charged with reckless daring or lack of proper precautions against the dangers of the surf. These life savers float about between the bathers and the deep sea, appearing like interested spectators merely, but they are constantly on the lookout for trouble, and the instant that trouble shows itself they are on the move.

And their movements are neither slow nor misdirected. They know their business and if it were not for them the fatalities at the coast resorts would be far more numerous every year than they are now. Frequent accounts are published detailing the success of their efforts to save lives, but all this is accepted by the public as a matter of course. It is understood that the safeguarding of life is the business of these men, that they are paid for their services and that consequently their work is worthy of no special attention except on occasions when specially daring feats are crowned with success.

And then there are the members of the life saving crews along the coasts, stationed for the purpose of succoring vessels in distress. These men face many dangers and suffer many hardships in the course of a year. In many instances their efforts result in the saving of lives and property, and yet the public bestows little attention upon them.

But these life savers in both classes are brave men and are really entitled to as much honor as if they were serving in the army or navy. Risking their own lives is an essential part of their calling. Beyond the constant watchfulness which they are obliged to maintain they are never called upon to act except in time of danger. Then they must face danger without flinching, and this they do.

All honor to the tanned stalwarts who watch over the careless and hilarious bathers, and stand ready night and day to go to the aid of vessels in trouble near shore. They are heroes as truly as any ever developed on the field of battle and are worthy of the respect and admiration of every thoughtful and appreciative man and woman.

The South may be furnishing a good share of the "dry" territory of the country, but there are still some habits there that are not to be commended. While on the witness stand in Nashville the other day the mayor of the city was ordered to disarm himself, it having been ascertained that he carried two pistols. It is fair to presume that the cross-examiner felt easier after this little formality had been attended to.

Chicago is to have the largest marble building in the world. It will be the Field Museum of Natural History and will cost $5,000,000. The late Marshall Field of that city gave $9,500,000 for the erection of the building and the endowment of the museum. Thus does a substantial share of the successful merchant's immense fortune flow back to the people of the city in which it was accumulated.

Now the lumbermen are complaining that their business is in a demoralized condition, owing to competition on the part of the government and the use of other materials for building purposes. Yet within very recent years the shouting about an impending lumber famine was such as to be heard from one end of the country to the other. So the bugaboos go down one after another.

Governor Harris of Georgia wants to know how one prisoner was able to make an attack on another, and it is his purpose to find out, as he should. That murderous attack on Leo M. Frank would indicate looseness somewhere in the prison management, and the governor does well in deciding to go to the bottom of the affair.

Lord Lansdowne of England fears the war will leave a burden of financial disaster that will "tax the resources of the civilized world." The nations at war are certainly getting rid of a good deal of money and doing it mightily fast.

The best feature of the recent trolley railway strikes in different cities and states was the briefness of their duration. It begins to look as if men were learning as well as living.

It is reported that 100,000 people have lost their lives by a flood in China. There is no country where such a loss would be less noticeable.

A better brand of hay weather would be appreciated by the farmers.

CURRENT OPINION

Strong Navy Needed to Safeguard Our Commercial Activities.

The day of conquest is past. Wars now come through the struggle for commercial supremacy, a rivalry with which each nation is thoroughly imbued. In order to carry off our part in the commercial world, as we shall from now on, a navy is essential to the protection of our commerce.

We are now starting banks under the federal reserve system in South America. We have engrained into our financial system acceptances from foreign countries. New York is now fast becoming the first financial center of better facilitating trade and commerce.

When all of these things are built up, as they will be, by the energy of our people there ought to be some power within the reach of the federal government to protect these enterprises and facilities with a power that is stronger than argument if the necessity should ever arise.

The only power and the only means through which to provide protection that is absolute is a navy. The navy can acquaint the world at large with our peaceful methods and in times of war by its forceful activities be the bulwark of our defense.—By Moses Alexander, Governor of Idaho.

PEOPLES' OPINION

Tax Payer Gives a Few Facts

To the Editor:

I was very much interested in the article regarding economy in the police force in your issue of July 22. I was more interested in the money raised and spent for an auto. Why shouldn't I be interested? I have been paying several hundred dollars taxes in Portsmouth for about fourteen years. I am in the auto business and get my living by selling Cadillac autos. The committee purchased a Cadillac in Portsmouth of a local dealer and taxpayer? I guess not. They believe in patronizing home industry, buy their goods from the tax payers who pay the money into their treasury. They do this by buying an auto out of town, not even calling on the head tax paying auto dealers to buy what they asked for an appropriation to buy; not ask if the local dealers could supply what they wanted, or as good as the other fellow had.

William B. Weaver sells the Ford—that is what the money was asked for. Charles B. Woods sells the Cadillac—that is what they purchased. Charles Woods could have sold them a better Cadillac for the same money and is here to guarantee it. The other fellow doesn't stand back of it.

Charles Woods had a car of the same model come from the factory three months later, was motor number 5000, had been run about 12,000 miles less, was in such good condition that it needed no new parts or varnish and was just as good in every way as the one purchased by the committee for the police. This machine never had so many mechanical repairs and troubles, and being five thousand later, had many improvements not on the one purchased from Raymond.

Charles Woods knows something of the police car as he sold it in Raymond to Frank Falconer, September, 1911. It was one of the first car load of 492 Cadillac cars received by the local agent.

They say it has been run only 7,000 miles. That is what the speedometer register now says. The shaft is gone and it isn't registering. That is what it was run the first year it was sold, four years ago, lacking two months. They say the paint never had to be refinished. It was refinished last winter.

It certainly is interesting to hear some model talk "Boost Portsmouth's patronize home industry," spend the taxes or city money out of town.

The car is a good trade but why not spend the city money in the city, especially when you can get better for your money. The reason may be the purchasers can't get so much money? A TAX PAYER IN PORTSMOUTH.

Editor:

If the management of the coming fair at Rockingham Park has not arranged for all the attractions during the exhibition, why not add another feature to the carnival that would be a drawing card. Why not arrange for a contest between the hand tub crews of this city if it is necessary to obtain the water for pumping.

As a member of the Veteran Firemen for years, I am positive that an event of this kind would appeal to the crews who work the brakes and a little encouragement would lead to a lively play between the Eureka and the T. W. Priest. Nothing outside of the horse racing would provide better amusement for the spectators. Why not give this consideration?

AN OLD VETERAN.

Are They Alive to the Situation

Editor:

I read with regret that the big shoe concern of Sears-Roebuck Co., are going to locate at Saco. The report that their representatives were here and looked over the Freeman's Point plant of the Colonial plant was cheering news and local shoe-makers were in hope that something would come out of it, but it seems that we are again doomed to disappointment. A public meeting was held in Saco and nearly $10,000 subscribed towards the enterprise. If any effort in this direction was made in this city I did not hear of it and sometimes I wonder if our business men and other interested ones are alive to the situation.

SIDE WORKER.

Oh! What a Difference.

Editor—I frequently read in your paper, "Make Portsmouth a convention city." To make Portsmouth a convention city and bring people here it cannot be done on wind. The members of the Franklin Pierce Veteran Firemen's Association have always been alive to anything that would benefit our good city and with that end in view had good prospects of securing the New England Firemen's muster, which would have brought many persons here, as well as many dollars. When their committee asked the co-operation of the Board of Trade in order to raise the necessary funds to secure the muster for this city, they were turned down with a dull thud.

What a difference! At Marblehead, where a sum considerably in excess of what was asked by the firemen was raised and more promised if needed. Comment is unnecessary, but it is a straight tip that Portsmouth cannot be made a convention city or anything else, unless those directly interested loosen up more than they have in the past.

EUREKA.

Editor:

If no objection, I would like to ask through The Herald what reason the Boston and Maine railroad has for not turning on the lights at night near the Vaughan street crossing. Not once a week is this dark and dangerous spot lighted; has the economy move reached a point where the company cannot provide proper lighting with its own power?

DULL DAYS IN BUSINESS.

An advertiser asks: "Does it pay to advertise in dull seasons?"

And this causes the inquiry: "What are dull seasons?" Would they be dull if you really went after business—or are they dull because "they have always been that way?" February and August used to be dull months—now they are the brightest in the year. Smaller examples are to be found all through the merchandise calendar. Very often advertising and merchandising mixed with the right proportion of brains will eliminate the "dull days."

STATE SHOOT AT MASSABESIC

Adjutant General Howard Designates August 22 in Order.

Concord, July 25.—Adjutant General Charles W. Howard has issued his preliminary order for the state shoot to be held on the range at Massabesic, beginning August 22. He says: "The annual state competition and camp of instruction for rifle practice will be held at the State Rifle Range at Massabesic, N. H., during the week of August 23, 1915."

"The following organizations will participate: The twelve companies of infantry; troop A cavalry, each of which will be represented by three officers and twenty enlisted men."

"The course fired will be the record practice organized militia course, prescribed in the Small Arms Firing Manual, 1913."

"To be eligible to attend this competition each competitor must have qualified as first class men in the organized militia instruction course. Prizes will be awarded to the three organizations attaining the highest figure of merit."

"The exact dates and details of this competition will be announced in a later order."

"The forty competitors making the highest scores of this competition, will attend a final competition in September (dates to be announced later) at which time a state team will be chosen to represent New Hampshire at the national rifle matches to be held at Jacksonville, Fla., in October, 1915. No officer or man will be chosen as a member of the team who does not comply with the eligibility clause contained in Bulletin No. 10, War Department, March 20, 1915."

"All officers and enlisted men of any organization not attending the state competition in August, but who have attained the grade of sharpshooter, are eligible to compete in the final try-out for positions on the state team, and will report their names to this office through their respective commanding officers, previous to September 4, 1915."

AT THE BIG TENT.

Evangelist A. J. Verrill Addresses a Good Sized Audience.

There was a very good attendance at the meeting held in the Big Tent at the corner of South street and Elwyn avenue yesterday afternoon. Evangelist A. J. Verrill delivered on the subject "The Bible, Evolution of Tradition—Which?"

He said: "When Ingersoll declared on 'The mistakes of Moses,' the Christian world was shocked; but today when hundreds of ministers are lecturing on the 'mistakes of Christ,' there is hardly a whispered protest in the same churches that were so horrified by Ingersoll."

"Not very long ago I found in the Boston Post an article from one of the ministers of one of the large churches and he said: 'The Garden of Eden story and all the other things that made up old Christianity have got to go. These fables, or myths, as you wish to call them must go. We want to get rid of the story of the Garden of Eden. We want to get rid of this post-mortem Christianity. It would have been better had there been no cross."

"That is just about what the infidel says. This is almost exactly what Thomas Paine said when landing in America (New York): 'In five years not a Bible will be found in the United States.'"

In speaking of evolution or Darwinism, Elder Verrill quoted from his "Origin of the Species," to show that he was not sure of his theory. "In one place," he said "the minister cheerfully concedes the existence of God as an explanation of the origin of the species. In other places he denies it, and claims the origin of man to be the result of the operation of certain laws."

The speaker went on to show that the theory of evolution, and higher criticism, will not stand the test of true science and the Bible. He asked:

"Can men make a perpetual motion machine that will run for two thousand years and only lose one eighty-third part of a second? Yet that is the degree of accuracy with which our world moves through space on its orbit around the sun. Astronomy affirms that the return of the planets to a given place is without variation."

"The heavens declare the glory of God," said Elder Verrill in closing. "It does not declare the glory of evolution, or of higher criticism. Man has no control whatsoever over the planets."

"The word of God shines brightly above the decay and ruin of human theories; evolution and tradition. The Bible is the oldest book of history that we have. It tells us of the origin of the species. Its authenticity can not be controverted."

"The subject for this evening is 'The sin against the Holy Ghost. Is the Holy Spirit departing from the world.' The service is at 7.45."

DIVING FOR BODIES FROM THE WRECK

Chicago, July 25.—More than eight hundred bodies had been recovered early today from the steamship Eastland, which sank at her pier in the Chicago river, carrying from fifteen hundred to eighteen hundred men, women and children to death. The work continues today, the diving squads working in relays. The exact number of dead still cannot be definitely determined.

"The bodies of the victims lie in great rows in the Second Regiment Armory, at Curtis street and Washington boulevard, and the College Annex, and each hour that passes sees the number increase. Of the bodies taken from the capsized steamship only 176 have been positively identified. The identity of 114 others has been partially established."

All night long the divers went down into the river for the dead, their work being made possible by lines of electric lights strung up along the pier where the vessel sank in such a short time that the 2500 picnicers aboard were trapped like rats. All were employees of the Western Electric Company, their families and friends."

Evidence of Frightful Panic. The condition of some of the bodies shows today what a frightful panic took place aboard the craft when all realized that they were lost. Some of the victims are terribly cut and scratched, and their clothing in some cases was reduced to ribbons in their vain battle for life."

Three-fourths of the dead recovered from the river are mothers and their children.

Five investigations into the cause of the greatest disaster by water in the history of the world are under way today, and the authorities are determined to place the blame on those responsible for the catastrophe. Several of the most important facts already have been established by survivors, whose stories are being taken down today by the investigators.

The survivors agree that five minutes from the time the first list was noticed the Eastland had settled on the bed of the river, the dead packed on board her. Scores of the hundreds who were on the decks rose to the surface at once, and the river for several yards was literally choked and clogged with bodies."

Those who aided in the rescue work declared today that the death toll would have been far smaller had not the hot boilers prevented the divers from getting into the hull of the submerged vessel at once. Several passengers were taken from their state rooms alive after the Eastland had been under water for two hours."

A special Federal grand jury has been authorized and is now investigating the disaster. Macley Hoyle, the state's attorney also has begun an inquiry in connection with the probes by the police and the coroner and the steamship inspectors.

Chicago in Sorrow. Chicago is enveloped in an atmosphere of sorrow more oppressive than that following the Equus Theatre fire. Mayor Thompson is hurrying back from California by special train.

Heart-breaking scenes are being witnessed at the temporary morgues in the Second Regiment Armory and in the College Annex, where throngs of men and women are marching past the lines of bodies, gazing into each face, seeking lost ones of the family. Policemen guarding the bodies from time to time are unable to maintain their nerve and break down, weeping with the bereaved ones.

Several of the survivors are crazed today, and it is feared that some will be insane for the remainder of their lives, the horror of their experiences having bereft them of their reason. In many cases women, insane for the time, were dragged from the Eastland, and numerous rescuers were temporarily crazed by the sight of the dying, whom they were helpless to aid.

Some of the survivors have been told of the loss of their wives, husbands and children. In most cases they display no violent grief, for they seem to be dazed by their own harrowing experiences.

Efforts are being made by the rescuers to attribute the disaster to criminal negligence. There are two general theories as to the cause of the sudden list of the Eastland—one that her water ballast had been removed so she could enter the river, thereby making her top-heavy, and the other that her equilibrium was destroyed by a tug which was pushing her around in the stream before her lines had been fast off.

LAST YEAR'S WINNER SURPRISED

Rene Thomas, 1914 Indianapolis Victor Comments on DePalma's Record

Rene Thomas, winner of the 1914 Indianapolis motor classic, could not refrain from bursting forth with surprise when he learned of Ralph DePalma's record breaking victory which eclipsed Thomas' mark by nearly 8 miles an hour.

"I thought that mark of mine would stand at least another year," he said. "DePalma surely didn't have him tires when he could hit it up to 90 miles an hour for that distance. And his car must have been right too." Thomas outgassed part of the field last year when he equipped with Palmer Cords manufactured in England. This year the drivers were practically unanimous in their choice of Silverstows, the wonderful cord the manufactured by the H. P. Goodrich Company, Akron, Ohio.

Many people are conjecturing as to what Thomas and his competitors will say when they learn of the mark which was set by Tesla on the Chicago speedway. Most of the French drivers are serving in the army and although there are a few of the racing cars which are not taking active part in the war, there is no racing scheduled for 1915.

SPORT NOTES

Tip Thrill seems to have been removed from the National League race through the recent widely quoted remark of Johnny Evers that: "They've ordered a close race to bring out the crowds."

Of course Johnny later repudiated his ball field remark explaining that it was made during an exciting combat when a fellow isn't always responsible for what he says. But somehow or other, despite Evers' backdown some of the public can't quite get rid of the idea that something is a bit odd about the National League.

Never in the modern history of baseball have the teams whirled along toward the month of August so closely bunched that a mere matter of eight games or so separated the first and last place clubs.

Those who believe firmly and unalterably in the honesty of baseball have no suspicions. They believe the teams are bunched with the so-called weaker ones leading the so-called class teams simply because the weaker clubs are outplaying the stronger. But there is another class of fans—and that class is suspicious. It felt that its suspicions were strengthened when it read what Evers said, and even though Evers later denied his own remarks, the class in question is not prone to believe the denial.

It is really too bad for baseball that Evers made that foolish remark. It has hurt baseball more than anything has hurt it in many years, and it has cooled the fever of many of the fans who were getting all "hot up" about the closeness of the National league battle.

George Ferring, the brilliant infielder of the Kansas City Feds, uses a bat that is more than thirty years old, and which came originally from a prison scaffold that was the scene of many hangings.

Ferring's father was a baseballer. When in the hey day of his career, the scaffold in the Ohio state prison was dismantled. The older Ferring got a piece of it—a hickory joint—and had it carved down into the size of a ball bat.

For twenty years he used that bat—and it produced a large flock of hits. Seven years ago the father gave the bat to the son and the son has been using it ever since.

CAR HITS BUGGY KILLING WOMAN

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Nason of Berwick Thrown Into Gutter.

Dover, N. H., July 25.—Mrs. Richard R. Nason, aged 53, of 33 Sullivan street, Berwick, Me., was fatally injured and her husband aged 50, was badly hurt about the hips in an accident on the state boulevard near Pages corner about a mile and a half out of the city last evening as a result of their horse becoming frightened when an automobile passed them from behind. The animal plunged across the electric railroad track directly in front of a rapidly approaching electric car of the Dover, Somersworth and Rochester Street railway.

Mrs. Marston died at the Wentworth hospital at four o'clock this morning. She sustained a fractured skull and internal injuries.

According to information obtained by the police, Mr. and Mrs. Nason were driving to Dover. When nearly opposite the house of Joseph L. Gilman a small automobile came up behind them at a fast clip. It is said that the driver of the car sounded a warning with his horn and shot by without lessening speed materially. At this moment a loaded electric car for Central Park came around the opposite direction and was running at the usual speed on the down-grade curve.

Mr. Nason claims that his horse took fright at the electric car and plunged across the track. Just as the horse was clearing the rails the car struck the outfit overturning the buggy and throwing the horse down. Mr. and Mrs. Nason were thrown violently into the gutter on the outside of the curve. The front wheels and shafts of the buggy were scattered. The horse took to the rails so suddenly that the motorman apparently was powerless to avoid the collision.

It is thought that the driver of the automobile got by unaware of the accident as he did not stop.

The Massachusetts car was coming down Congress street at a fair rate of speed and the Pennsylvania car down Vaughan street. Officer West signalled to the Pennsylvania car to slow down and the machine stopped only a few feet apart. NARROW ESCAPE.

Peddler Snatched From Death at Newburyport.

A peddler of raincoats, who makes periodical visits to Newburyport in pursuit of business, had a close call from being crushed beneath the cars of the passenger train, arriving in this city at 7:15 Friday evening.

He attempted to board the train after it had started, with twenty-five or thirty coats on his shoulder. As he grasped the hand rail, the bundle was twisted out of his other hand and dropped to the ground.

Albert Quill, son of Bagdasarian John J. Quill happened to be on the platform and managed to seize the man and drag him up the steps and to safety. Mr. Quill, without doubt, saved the man from serious injury, perhaps death as the accident occurred at the rear of next to the last car.

The peddler got off at Rowley and returned to Newburyport for his property on the 8:03 train. Finding that he could not leave the city until the 10:30 train, with characteristic enterprise he opened up his samples and proceeded to do business as if nothing had happened.

FOR SALE—One driving horse, two sets of harness, one Concord wagon, one grocery wagon, one two-seated carry-all. Donald A. Randall, Marston avenue, telephone 241, self 326.

LICENSES GRANTED.

Liquor Zone Extended in Franklin by Excise Board.

At the regular meeting of the excise commission at the state house, Friday night, two additional saloon licenses and a wholesale license were granted to be exercised in Franklin on Canal street, thereby extending the zone fixed by the former license commission.

The action taken was based on the sentiment of 90 per cent of the entire community, which favored action to relieve the congestion on Central street on which the licenses granted by the former board are operated, which sentiment was gained by the commission on a visit to the city last week, during which the members personally visited persons of all shades of opinion and talked over the situation with them.

One of the saloon licenses as well as the wholesale license will be operated by Cunningham & Marceau, while the other license of the second class was granted to Samuel Jennelle, Jr. These bring the total of the saloon licenses to four, the same number granted in the city when it was under a former administration.

NOTE OPENS WAY FOR MORE PARLEY IS BELIEF OF BERLIN NEWSPAPERS

Berlin, July 25.—German newspapers refuse to regard the third American note as a final statement of the American position. The journals which usually reflect the views of the government are particularly strong in this opinion. The Local Anzeiger, which is believed to typify the views of the cabinet, declaring that the note leaves the entire submarine question open to further negotiations.

The full text of the American warning has not yet been published here, the government giving out only a summary to the newspapers. This was done so that there might not be a general outburst of protest on the part of the German people against abandoning the submarine campaign. The announcement of the sinking of British vessels caused great enthusiasm throughout the empire, and if there is to be any modification of the German methods of sea attack the change probably will be carried out with the least publicity possible.

Several of the leading newspapers of Berlin accuse the United States of acting not as a neutral, but as a friend of Great Britain. This view is taken by the Kreuz Zeitung, which declares that the note is partisan and that the United States has no right to demand safety for persons who travel on board vessels carrying ammunition. The Kreuz Zeitung expresses confidence that Germany will not in any circumstances abandon the submarine campaign.

There is little likelihood that Berlin will send a reply to Washington before September, and even if orders are given to the commanders of submarines to refrain from attacking unarmed merchant vessels the fact will not be made public.

It has been intimated several times recently and not denied that Germany might give the United States the assurance she has been demanding in a confidential communication to be held in secret until the war ends.

RUSSIAN TROOPS HOLDING STRONG TEUTONIC FORCES

London, July 25.—Austro-German troops have forced a passage of the Narva river, cleared the Russians from the strongholds of Rovan and Pultusk and are today attacking the Russian forces defending Warsaw.

Although outnumbered and forced to face superior artillery, the Russians are fighting magnificently and are inflicting frightful losses on the enemy. The tide of battle in the next few hours, it is believed by military experts, will cause the Tsar to decide whether to withstand a siege, risk all on a pitched battle or retire from Warsaw entirely. At present there seems to be little chance of the Russians saving their railway communications from the city to the interior.

been abandoned entirely, for with their backs to the ring of fortifications that guard the city the Slavs may be able to deal such a staggering blow to the enemy that the Teutonic advance would be checked until reinforcements and ammunition could be brought up to brace the Tsar's wavering line.

The passage of the Narva, to the north of Warsaw, was forced by the army commanded by General von Gallwitz. The German reports state that irresistible charges swept the Russians back and that the Teutonic allies are advancing on both of General von Gallwitz's wings to maintain and follow up the victory.

Berlin also asserts that General von Below has administered a smashing defeat to the Russian Fifth army near Shavil, and is pressing forward rapidly.

Pending an official announcement from Petrograd concerning the reported nearness of the fall of Warsaw, hope is held out that the Russians are not in the plight they are pictured by the German official statement, and that they may maintain their battle front and save their communications.

The Austrian armies are said to be progressing sufficiently to bring their wing of the long battle line forward with the German advance.

The fortifications at Poznan and Pultusk were two of the most formidable in the path of the German advance on Warsaw, and were counted upon by the Russians to defend the triangle between the Vistula and the Bug, the apex of which is the well defended town of Zarnow. The bug is not fortified, and unless the Slavs can check the Germans quickly, they will soon advance the fifteen miles between the Vistula and the unprotected stream. Such a drive would make it possible it is said, for the Germans to establish forces on all four sides of Warsaw. In the event of a siege, this would sever the railway connections with the interior and probably would make a siege of the Polish capital short-lived.

As the situation now stands it is thought the Russians would risk a pitched battle rather than evacuate the city, as their lines are intact and the troops enthusiastic.

FRENCH REPULSE ALL GERMAN ATTACKS

Paris, July 25.—Everywhere along the western line of the western theatre of war the Germans were repulsed in every attack made during the last 24 hours, according to an official communication made public today by the French War Office. Several vicious attacks were made by the Germans in the vicinity of Reich-Ackerkopf and also on the heights to the east of Metz, but they fared little better than those made on the previous day, as all were doomed to failure.

In the Sochez region there was a violent artillery action, such as has been indulged in for the last few days, while the Germans continued to throw some shells upon the outskirts of Sochez as well as on Rheims, while the fighting in the forest of Le Pretre continues with all its original ferocity.

A German aeroplane soaring over the French lines in an effort to discover the positions of the allies in the vicinity of Bethancourt was fired at by the high angle guns and damaged so badly that the two aviators were compelled to descend, falling inside the French lines, where they were made prisoners.

The official communication follows: "There is nothing to report except an artillery action around Sochez, the throwing of some shells on Sochez and Rheims and a violent bombardment in the forest of Le Pretre. A German aeroplane was brought to earth near Bethancourt, the two aviators being made prisoners."

Woman's World

General in Chief of the Suffrage Forces of the Keystone State.

MRS. FRANK M. ROESSING.

Mrs. Frank M. Roessing, president of the Pennsylvania Woman Suffrage association, is a new type of suffrage leader. As general in chief of the suffrage forces of the Keystone State she is conducting a campaign for the ballot, which, because of the dignity and common sense that characterize it, has gained the respect and admiration of the entire country.

Sensational stunts that have nothing but their sensationalism to commend them have no place in the Pennsylvania suffrage campaign. Although still in the early thirties, Mrs. Roessing has achieved distinction as both a civic worker and philanthropist, as well as leader of the state suffrage forces. Moreover, her civic and sociological work has always been along constructive lines, with the betterment of civil conditions as the goal to be achieved.

Through the women's clubs of her home city, Pittsburgh, she worked for years to secure better living conditions for women and children. As secretary of the Twentieth Century club and as treasurer of the Playground association, she made an enviable reputation both as an executive and financier.

Mrs. Roessing's interest in suffrage came as a development of her active experiences as a civic worker, for she learned early the difficulties of attempting to better conditions for women and children through "indirect influence." She found, she says, that without the ballot even the most earnest workers were handicapped. Therefore she determined to secure the power which it represented for the women who need it most, in her opinion—the women of the factory and mill.

Her success in this task is shown by the growth of interest in the suffrage question in Pennsylvania during the past few years. This year through her generosity the question goes directly to the voters for the first time. Powerful interests are fighting the Pennsylvania suffragists, but Mrs. Roessing does not fear the outcome. "We will win," she said recently, "because the majority of men in the state believe in fair play. And that is what the question of suffrage finally resolves itself into—just fair play."

THE SUMMER ROOM.

White, Black and Rose Make Stunning Decorative Scheme.

The fad for black and white wall papers grows apace, and the creations of ecromes to use with such wall paper is black of ground and splashed over with great, glowing red roses. Can you visualize the smartness of a country house living room papered in black and white stripes, hung with a few black framed etchings and one or two gilt framed mirrors, and furnished with black wicker furniture and this splendid rose covered black ecromes?

English officers' wives who make homes in India depend for nine-tenths of their furnishings on ecromes. Furniture in the official quarters is of the simplest sort, but twenty or thirty yards of fresh chintz, taken out from "home" and used to cover chairs, couches and tables, turn the austere living rooms into bowers of homeliness and daintiness. Some of the new summer ecromes cost but 10 cents a yard—in pleasing patterns too. For 20 cents a surprisingly attractive pattern may be secured, and twenty yards at 20 cents a yard will achieve marvels in the way of giving a country-house living room a homelike air.

The woman with a true eye for color is careful about the books and magazines that lie about her living room. A blue book in a gray and blue room may focus all the color and be very effective. Such a book placed conspicuously in another room may be a horribly jarring note. Magazine covers are bright in color, and the cover that harmonizes with its surroundings will happen to be on top of the pile of magazines in the room of the artistic hostess.

The Castle Clock

By JOHN Y. LARNED

When Count Kerchoff died leaving no children his fortune passed to a distant connection who had never seen him or his abode. The young man who succeeded to the title and the property, Adolf Herzog, on receipt of notification of his relative's death and his own ascension to the estate, went to the Schloss, and took up his abode there. He found Hans Schlotter, an old servant, in charge of the place, who showed him his domain and gave him a minute account of everything in it, for Schlotter had been there ever since he was born and for many years had been the major domo.

"That clock," he said, referring to a thimble some six feet in height and in breadth and thickness the size of a coffin for an adult, "has stood there ever since the Schloss was built, now nearly 200 years ago. It has foretold the death of every count since the first, who was ennobled on account of his services in battle."

"What?" exclaimed the young man, with a shudder. "Foretold death! How did it do that?"

"I cannot tell you," replied the old man. "All I know is that two counts have died while I have lived here. One of them told my father that he was going to die, the clock having warned him of his approaching end. The other, he who died a few weeks ago, told me the same thing with regard to himself. But there is nothing remarkable about this, for there is a tradition that the clock will foretell the death of the incumbent count till the Schloss is a ruin."

Count Adolf said nothing in reply to this information, but it affected him very sensibly. Soon after becoming domiciled in his new home he found himself constantly looking for some sign from the clock that could be interpreted as an indication that his end was near. It would seem rather that the clock should be looking for signs of his own decay, because it was very old while the count was young and healthy.

Count Adolf was betrothed when he succeeded to the property to Bertha von Helwig, whom he married soon after his accession and took her there to live. Not wishing that she should be aware of his uncomfortable feelings occasioned by the tradition he said nothing to her about it. But it was not long before the young countess saw that something unpleasant was affecting her husband, and in time she surmised that it was the clock. For she noticed that her husband was often watchful, and whenever that occurred he told her he wished it would not tell so loud.

One night when Count Adolf was not feeling well, after he had gone to sleep his wife arose, slipped downstairs and opened the parlor door. Then she went back to bed. The reason she did this was that she feared if her husband awoke and heard the ticking he would be annoyed by it. In the middle of the night the count awoke, feverish and in pain.

Immediately he noticed that the clock was ticking. Had he been in a normal condition he would doubtless have thought it had run down, though it had never been known to run down, for Hans Schlotter attended to its winding and had done so for half a century. He boasted that in all these years he had never permitted it to run down but once, though he admitted that this had occurred shortly before Count Kerchoff's death.

Unfortunately the old man had told this to his young master. Therefore when Count Adolf awoke feeling ill and did not hear the ticking of the clock he at once inferred that its ceasing presaged his death. Having always concealed what troubled him from his wife, fearing that she would conceive a contempt for him on account of it, he did not now reveal it to her. But he awoke her and told her that he feared he was going to die.

The countess at once awoke the servants and sent for a doctor, who found the count in a state of collapse. He could not tell what was the matter with his patient, for all his organs seemed to be in fairly good working order. The count's nerves were evidently affected, so, not knowing what else to do, the doctor gave him a sedative, which put him to sleep.

A daughter of Hans Schlotter, going downstairs after having carried up a bottle of hot water for the invalid, noticed that the old clock had stopped. Supposing that her father had let it run down, she started the pendulum going; but, nothing that she weights still hung high, she refrained from winding it. When the count awoke Hans was standing by his bed. The invalid, hearing the clock ticking, asked Hans if he was aware that the clock had stopped during the night. Hans said he was not.

"It stopped to give me warning," replied the count, "and it has gone on again." Thereupon the poor man went off again into a nervous chill.

The countess coming in at this moment, Hans told her that her husband was about to die, for the clock in the hall always stopped when the count incumbent was approaching his end.

"Toot!" cried the countess. "I stopped it myself."

"The count heard her and, sitting up in bed, said, 'I am the fool!'"

The next morning the count was quite well again. It was the clock that was dead. The countess had chopped it into junk and kindling wood.

PHYSICAL DIRECTOR AT STATE COLLEGE

Durham, July 25.—W. H. Cowell, who last year as assistant in athletics at Haskell Institute, contributed so largely to the success of the Haskell Indians in football, has declined an appointment as assistant at the Carlisle Indian school, to become physical instructor and take charge of athletics at New Hampshire college.

Mr. Cowell, who was for several years one of the star athletes at the University of Kansas, later played at the University of Illinois and in 1913 was tackle on the University of Pittsburgh football team, will come here in September with the highest recommendations and the outlook is bright for the best year in athletics New Hampshire has ever known.

George Huff, baseball coach of the University of Illinois, and formerly manager of the Boston Americans, is one of those instrumental in bringing Mr. Cowell here, and J. M. Huff, Jr., coach at Pittsburgh in football, formerly a Princeton man, and member of the All-American team, says: "He's a mighty good man, and knows the game." Another expert who has praised Mr. Cowell is Prof. James Nal-smith of the department of physical education at Kansas University, and Dr. A. P. Kennedy in charge of athletics at Haskell, attributes the success of last year's football team there in great part to his work.

This team last season met Texas University, the Texas Aggies, the Louisiana State University, Notre Dame, and others and has games scheduled for next fall with Illinois, Chicago and Notre Dame. Mr. Cowell is an exponent of clean, hard athletics and strict training, and in football is a believer in the open game for the offense.

He will be physical instructor here, with general supervision of athletics and will act as coach for the football, baseball, and basketball teams. There will probably be a special coach for the track team. He will give courses in the winter in the gymnasium for both the men and women students.

NAVY WILL CONTRIBUTE SPECIAL FEATURES FOR G. A. R.

Submarines and Swift Running Torpedo Boat Destroyers Will Be Brought to Washington During Annual Encampment.

Washington, D. C. July 24.—Submarines and swift running torpedo-boat destroyers will be brought to Washington by the navy department to add a special feature to the series of events which are to take place at the national capital in connection with the forthcoming encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic. Secretary Daniels is desirous that the old veterans shall be afforded an opportunity to see some of the implements of modern warfare in order to show by contrast with those which were in use half a century ago the progress which has been made since the days when the Grand Army men and their brothers in the navy bore arms.

The fact is appreciated that because of its successful operation in European waters at the present time the submarine is the most talked of weapon of submarine warfare, yet few of the veterans of the Civil war have ever seen one. The suggestion was at first made that the department should bring to Washington the old Holland, which was the first underwater craft of our navy and from which the successful boats of today have been developed, and place beside it one of the recently constructed submarines. The fact that this vessel has been sold to a private concern will preclude that possibility, and accordingly it has been planned to bring here one of the earliest types and also one of the modern submarines to illustrate the great progress in construction. The United States was the first nation to develop the under water fighting vessel. It was then taken up by Great Britain which employed the old Holland patents with improvements, and finally by Germany which has used this class of boats with such deadly effect upon the ships of her enemies. The old Holland and some of the models which followed her, one of which will be here gave their first demonstrations in the Potomac off Washington where it is proposed during encampment week to give exhibitions of torpedo firing dummies being used, to illustrate the manner in which the present day submarine operates.

An effort is also being made to have one or more hydroplanes brought here for exhibition purposes.

GERMANS SAY RENNENKAMPF IS IN DISGRACE AND JAILED

Berlin, July 26.—According to the newspaper Tagesspiegel, the Russian General Rennenkampf has been for some time a prisoner in the fort of St. Peter and St. Paul in Petrograd and is suffering great hardship there.

This information has been brought to Berlin by Herr Paul Scheinberg, musical director of the Blüthner orchestra of Berlin. Herr Scheinberg states that he went to Russia in June, 1914 to conduct a series of concerts in Riga. He was courteously received, he says, and the concerts were largely attended.

However, in July a coldness appeared to develop, and when the war was declared with such suddenness he and the members of his orchestra were made prisoners. Through the kindness of some of his friends in Riga, Herr Scheinberg received a passport.

When he reached Petrograd the passport was confiscated and he was placed in the city prison. He was incarcerated for two weeks with Chinese Tartars and Russians and he says he was not permitted to communicate with the outside world. Then he, with other interned Germans, was transported to Wologda in the Ural mountains. The journey over the steppes he says, was a nightmare. Without money or food the sufferings of the prisoners were intense. Made insane by their hardships, eighteen of the prisoners who were members of his orchestra committed suicide by drowning in the Volga.

The life of Wologda brought no end to his sufferings. Food was scarce and the Russian officials made no attempt to relieve the three thousand hungry German prisoners, he declares but just when starvation threatened to put an end to their misery the U. S. ambassador in Petrograd who had heard of their plight, came to their relief with money and food. The Russian peasants too, took pity on their prisoners and smuggled food to the prisoners at night.

Herr Scheinberg states that Frau Arntsch, correspondent for a Berlin newspaper, was suspected of being a spy. Although married to a Russian, she was at once shot.

General Rennenkampf who was defeated by Field Marshal von Hindenburg at Tannenberg, was arrested on his return to Petrograd and placed in solitary confinement in the famous fortress. Herr Scheinberg adds that little mercy is shown to the defeated general, and he is suffering untold hardship.

Herr Scheinberg returned to Germany after a trying trip of more than two weeks by the way of Sweden.

THE EVIDENCES OF A HOLY DISPOSITION

"If Any Man Have Not the Spirit of Christ, He is None of His."

Different Meanings of the Word Spirit. Consecration a Definite Contract With God—Sealed With the Spirit—Fruits of the Spirit—Justice the Foundation Principle of the Divine Character. Proper Balancing of Character Necessary to Joint-Heirship With Christ.

PASTOR RUSSELL

Hamilton, Ont., July 25.—Pastor Russell preached here today from the text, "God hath not given us the spirit of fear, but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind."—2 Timothy 1:7.

The discourse began with an explanation of the different meanings of the word spirit. Bible students, the speaker declared, had learned that the text under consideration referred to different dispositions, not to spirit beings. A holy person has a holy influence, disposition, spirit. Gradually we are getting the right focus on these matters, he asserted, and see that God is a Spirit and has an influence—just as a human being has an influence. That influence is according to the character. Some have a power of evil-doing by which they could vanquish a multitude; others have a spirit of bitterness, and can arouse evil in others; still others have a spirit of kindness, gentleness and love. See Luke 9:55.

The Bible shows that God, who is a Spirit, is not vindictive, but merciful, loving and just. His disposition, His Spirit, is holy; He is not disposed to do anything wrong or unjust. All who receive His Spirit receive the spirit of a sound mind, of justice, gentleness, etc. Those who think of the Holy Spirit as a God who divides Himself up and enters into millions of people are certainly very much confused. This is not the Bible presentation of the subject. Whoever receives the Spirit of God and of Christ receives the spirit of holiness.

"Accepted in the Beloved."

The Pastor then showed that no one can receive the Holy Spirit except those who enter into a definite contract with God through Christ. After one has taken this step of consecration to do the will of God, our Lord imparts to him the merit of His own sacrifice in such form that the Father can accept him as His own child and start in him the beginning of a new nature—a new creation. Whoever gets a proper view of this transaction will not think that he must give himself repeatedly to the Lord, but will concern himself about living up to his contract, which God has sealed with the Holy Spirit, the earnest, the land payment, of the Church's inheritance.—2 Corinthians 1:21, 22.

Daily the consecrated should search God's Word, to understand His message and to obtain the Spirit of the Truth. Thus more and more they will be filled with the Holy Spirit—the spirit of meekness, gentleness, long-suffering, patient endurance and love. And they cannot have these fruits unless they possess the Spirit of God and of Christ, inheriting their acts, words and thoughts. The Holy Spirit is not a spirit of excitement. We have known people to be filled with the spirit of excitement who seemingly had none of the Holy Spirit. The Spirit of God will soon manifest itself by its fruits.—Galatians 5:22, 23.

Whoever comes into relationship with God receives a begetting of love. "Love works no ill to his neighbor." Love will always at least be just. Therefore "Love is the fulfilling of the Law." No law requires more than justice. Whatever we do more than justice is that much of sacrifice on our part; and God's Law does not demand that any shall sacrifice. Because of our imperfections we cannot do all that we desire to do; but we can see to it that our will is to do nothing less than justice, and that if in anything we come short of the Golden Rule we shall not rest until we shall have righted the matter.

Great Test Upon the Church.

The speaker concluded his address with a detailed description of the standard of character necessary for joint-heirship with our Lord in His Kingdom. Whoever attains that glorious position must be very loyal to God, and very just in appreciation of the rights of others. The Father sees the imperfect bodies of His children; but He promises that if He finds their hearts and their hearts right He will give them a perfect body in the resurrection. Then, fully committed to those principles of righteousness which represent the Divine character, the Holy Spirit, they shall be ready for His service.

The foundation of God's Throne is Justice, upon which His Empire is built. While He demands nothing more than justice, yet whoever would reign with Christ must have the love which would lay down life itself for the brethren. The Father is seeking those who have the spirit of love—those who are kind, loving, forgiving, helpful; for all who have His Holy Spirit will strive to bless all mankind.

William A. Trueman Siezed With Cramps
In Water While Attending Picnic

William A. Trueman, aged 52 years, made from the Sturgis cottage, Dr. of 580 Bellingham street, this city, was drowned yesterday morning in the creek at Sagamore, while bathing. Mr. Trueman was attending a picnic with some of his fellow employees at Sagamore grove. He had been playing quoits in the forenoon, and at about 10:30 went into the water. He started to swim across the creek, and a few moments later, was taken with cramps. Hearing his cries for help, Harold Trefethen and Herbert Flanagan went to his rescue. The body was floating when the two men reached it, and Mr. Frank Jones, a member of the Franklin Pierce Veterans' Association, who has a cottage close to the grove, got a boat and assisted in getting the body to the shore. A phone call for a physician was made from the Sturgis cottage, Dr. Fred S. Towle, who was at the Hotel Wentworth, responding. The doctor, which was taken to the scene of the tragedy by Edward Hoyt of the Portsmouth Motor Mart. Dr. Towle, assisted by others, worked over the body for more than an hour, but life was lost. The body was viewed by a Medical Referee Sherburne and death was pronounced due to accidental drowning. The body was turned over to Undertaker O. W. Ham. Mr. Trueman was employed at the White, chauffeur for R. C. Sturgis, a member of the Franklin Pierce Veterans' Association and Local No. 127, Brewery Workers Union. Joseph and Katherine Chahol, who the police claim have been conducting a series of pink teas on Washington street, appeared today before Judge Clupitt and both pleaded guilty to the charge of intoxication. They asked the court to give them a chance and they would cut out the gay life in Portsmouth. On a promise to embark for some other territory the court suspended a fine of $5.00 and three months at the county farm.

Thomas Garrity, a stranger to the court, paid something for his first appearance. He is said to have bombarded the toll collector's house at the New Castle bridge with rocks and a variety of trouble in that vicinity on Saturday. Thomas was charged with being drunk and he might have got away with the $5 and costs, but when the court heard all about the incidents he pulled out with the rocks Thomas was ordered to separate himself from $31.18. A sentence of 60 days at the county farm, suspended, was the only good thing that came his way and he was thankful for that.

Francis Noel and Jesse Walker answered to the same charge. Noel was hit for $5 and costs and Walker remitted $10 and $5.00.

SUFFRAGE AND SOCIALISM

In these days the opponents of equal rights for women are continually harping upon Socialism. "Suffrage means Socialism," is their constant war-cry, both in their public addresses and in their official publications. "All Socialists are suffragists," they are constantly telling us; and they predict that granting votes to women will mean the speedy bringing in of the Socialist State. Now, the Socialists themselves do not think so. All Socialists have woman suffrage as a plank in their theoretical platform, but many of them confess they do not want it to come until Socialism comes, just because they believe that it would delay the coming of Socialism.

The proportion of women in the Socialist membership is about one to ten, and in every state where women have had the ballot long enough to compare presidential election with presidential election, the growth of the Socialist vote was below the average.

Next Saturday is Newmarket Day at Hampton Beach and it is expected there will be a large crowd present from the mill city. There will be a list of sports including a game of baseball between the Newmarket Mills team and the Amesbury nine.

A Call for Rescue

Four-year-old Donald was out on the lawn, wrestling with a somewhat older boy, and getting decidedly the worst of it. His quick wit thought out a way to avoid defeat, so he called out:

"Mamma, did you call me?"

Not receiving any reply and being on the verge of defeat, Donald yelled desperately:

"Call me in, mamma, call me in, quick."—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

ASSISTED CHOIR

Miss Agnes Duffy of New York city assisted the choir of the Church of the Immaculate Conception at the 10:30 service on Sunday morning, during which she rendered a soprano solo, "Ave Marie" from Luzzi, in a most exquisite manner.

We also have the "Hearst-Selig" News Pictorial.

PROGRAM FOR MONDAY AND TUESDAY

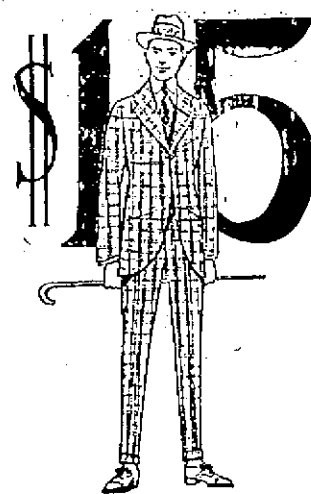

Including above

"THE FRAME-UP," Kalem, two parts.

BOUNCING JOHNSON—An unusual act, playing all the big vaudeville houses—a bouncing rope act.

RUTH and KITTY HENRY—Two clever girls in up to the minute songs and dances.

CHARLES BUCKLEY COMPANY—Three people in a comedy sketch, "The Property Boy." It is one of the best.

Our fifteen dollar suits look like "more money." There's a reason. They are smartly tailored in the newest models, and the fabrics are of the same patterns and colorings as those "higher up." There's a big fifteen dollars' worth in each and every one of them. The young men's models are especially smart. In checks, stripes, fancy mixtures and the "old reliable" blue serges.
